EDITORIAL FLINGS

A Kentucky woman who owns 270 acres of fat Bluegrass land is charged with making moonshine whisky. Well, there is nothing like welfare to whet one's appetites for riches.

The Chicago Tribune proposes this revised toast: "The ladies, God bless 'em." And right away we grasp the analogy between modern tendencies and the garb of the first woman which Jehovah created.

There is now a new national association in process of formation. It is called the Order of Brass Monkeys. We do not intend to join until we can find out whether William Jennings Bryan is a charter member.

Recent sartorial edicts proclaim the passing of cuffs on trousers and on shirt sleeves. Especially are we glad of the latter. A domestic cuff on the ear seems to be about the only thing of the sort which poor man can hope for.

Peggy Hopkins is writing for a newspaper syndicate on "My Life With My Wealthy Husbands." A poor woman with more brains and more decency finds nothing to write about which would tickle the palate of Peggy's followers.

The best thing about the English language is that it is still unfinished. We read, for instance, that such a person has sold the dramatic and celluloid rights to his newest story. And at once we are inspired to inquire who collared them.

The new postcard pictures of the various summer resorts in this and other States which are now being made for the summer tourists give no hint of a troubled frown on the proprietor's brow over the proposed increase in hotel rates this year.

Greater love for his employees than no Paris man than this, that he dismisses the whole works for an afternoon off when the Paris team is playing at home, or when some feller comes in with the salutation, "They're bitin' good in Stoner now."

Coming down on the interurban car from Lexington the other evening two Paris men were comparing notes. One of them held in his hand a ticket which had "also ran." After a mournful look he tore the bit of pasteboard into pieces, and remarked to his companion: "I was reading a while ago where some statistical sharps declared every rat costs $2 a year. That's very likely, but not invariably in the way of pari-mutuel tickets bought on a tip or hunch that the rat was a horse."

Some of the Paris moralists are "crabbing" over the fact that some little children are seen on the streets at night. Curfews and cops have their uses, dear crabbies, but the best curfew in the world is a conscientious, vigilant and sensible mother, and the admonition of a policeman isn't half so effective as the voice of a watchful father. When boys under sixteen frequent the pool-rooms and girls of tender years run the streets at night there is something wrong in the home. A half-hourly going to remind parents of their responsibilities might usefully replace the curfew bell and the uniformed policeman.

FIND ANCIENT SCRIPT

Writing Similar to Chinese Discovered in Idaho.

Scientists Will Explore Caves and Decipher the Writing Before Revealing Location—May Find Valuable Relics.

Boise, Idaho.—Symbols and signs, chiseled, it is believed, ages ago, were discovered recently on lava rocks in a remote section of Owyhee county, southwestern Idaho.

Many of the inscriptions bear striking resemblance to Chinese alphabet characters of today, it was said, although archeologists say they may be anywhere from 400 to 30,000 years old.

Discovery of the inscriptions, which are said to be a mine of archeological treasure, was made by Robert Limbert, a Boise taxidermist. Their exact location will not be made public until they are examined thoroughly this summer by a number of scientists who are coming here.

The volcanic rock on which the inscriptions are carved is scattered over a 30-acre sagebrush flat. In the immediate vicinity are several large caves, around the entrance of which the rocks also are inscribed. It is believed these caves never have been explored. Possibly, it is said, they contain many relics of scientific value.

Two distinct types of carvings, ideographic and pictographic, have been noted. Archeologists believe the ideographic antedates by many years the pictographic. Both systems have been found together on one rock and near them can be discerned what appears to be a third system, supposed to antedate both of the others, but which has weathered beyond possibility of deciphering.

Clear bits of this prehistoric writing are found on one huge water-worn boulder 25 feet long, 14 feet wide and 5 feet high. Near the center is a series of triangles believed to indicate Indian tepees, and next to them are rows of dots and dashes, thought to be numerals.

Resemblance of many of the inscriptions to the characters of the Chinese alphabet was taken by some to substantiate the theory that the North American native descended from a race which came from Asia by way of Bering straits.

Indians now living in Idaho, when questioned regarding the carvings, say the more modern or pictographic are the work of their forefathers, but they assert the others to be the work of spirits.

SOVIETS KILLED 22 PRELATES

Metropolitan of Kiev Gives Figures From 1917 to 1920—Nine Tortured to Death.

London.—The Bolsheviks in Russia from 1917 to 1920 killed one metropolitan, five archbishops and sixteen bishops, of whom thirteen were shot and nine tortured to death, according to a telegram sent by Archbishop Anthony, Metropolitan of Kiev, to the Archbishop of Canterbury, says the London Times.

The Metropolitan says he has no information concerning the year 1921.

DOG HEARS MASTER BY RADIO

Terrier Cuts Capers as He Recognizes Owner's Voice Calling Him Over Wireless.

Lexington, Ky.—An Airedale terrier in the radio receiving room of the University of Kentucky heard his owner at Pittsburgh, Pa., call him. The owner, F. Paul Anderson, dean of the university, was speaking from the Westinghouse broadcasting station. The dog was sleeping as Anderson's voice came in. He sprang to his feet, wagged his tail and then capered about the radio outfit.

Big Price of Little Land.
Harrisburg, Va.—Probably the smallest transfer of real estate to be entered on record in the office of the County Clerk here was recorded yesterday when a conveyance of twelve square feet located between two dwellings was made for a consideration of $100.

The price was at the rate of $908,000 an acre. It was pointed out: The strip of land was 28 feet long and 5 1/2 inches wide.

Mule Fell on Him.
Greensburg, Ind.—Clarence Melish of this city was the victim of an unusual accident the other day while digging a ditch here. A mule, driven by Thomas Burton, fell in the ditch at the point where Melish was working, and he was held prisoner by the weight of the animal until it was removed by fellow workmen. Melish suffered an injured hip and a few minor bruises.

Dog Tows His Master to a Cake of Ice.

Red Wing, Minn.—When eight-year-old Pierce Seebach fell in to the Mississippi river, coming to the surface 20 feet from shore, his dog plunged in and swam around until the boy seized his hind legs. Then the dog towed his master to a floating cake of ice, from which he was rescued by onlookers.

ARMENIA NEEDS FOOD

Supply Is Exhausted, American Relief Workers Report.

Bread Is Made From all Sorts of Substances—Break-up of Winter Reveals Terrible Conditions—Seed Grain Needed.

New York.—A cablegram received by Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of Near East Relief, dated Alexandropol, tells of how investigation by American relief workers has revealed terrible starvation among refugees and orphans with the break-up of winter in the mountain villages of central Armenia.

Foodstuffs throughout the area are exhausted, the cable says, and continues: "Bread is made from all sorts of substitutes, including flax, chaff and sawdust, having no appreciable food value. The people are extracting undigested materials from old refuse and giving it to the children. Health conditions are critical. Gastric and intestinal troubles prevail, due to malnutrition. A large per cent of the people are suffering from skin diseases. One-fourth of the adults are incapacitated and bedridden.

"In the villages visited there are 1,500 orphans who should be removed immediately if they are to live. Even in small villages the weekly death list includes ten children. In many villages all children have lost their hair during the winter. Several cases were so desperate that the people resorted to eating human flesh, which practice was sharply punished by the authorities. Officials said they are doing all they can to prevent it, but the people lose their senses from hunger. At Mahmauchuk a family of fifteen persons was visited a month ago. Now only three of the family remain. The dead include all the male members of the family. Great anxiety is expressed about securing seed and grain for spring planting. The head man of the largest village said: 'If we can secure seed we shall be on our feet by midsummer. If we don't get seed we are doomed to death.'

Near East Relief has sixty American relief administrators, doctors and nurses in this area. During the winter, however, their supplies and resources have been so reduced that they have been able to do little more than care for the large number of orphans already accepted in institutions, a single orphanage numbering 18,000 children. Secretary Vickrey declares that not only the lives of the orphaned children this spring, but the food supply for the entire population next winter depends on the prompt dispatch within the next few weeks of grain for food and seed from the United States.

LAUGHING LION CUB

This youngster is laughing with and at you. So far as known it is the first time a photo has ever been made of a lion cub in the act of laughing. Nature students who have seen the photo say that the cub is not laughing but is prepared to go to sleep and is yawning. The owner of the cub is Mrs. H. E. Cole of San Francisco.

STRADIVARIUS BRINGS $9,000

Maker Received 80 Francs for It When He Made It in 1735.

Paris.—A Stradivarius violin, for which the maker, Antonius Stradivarius, received 80 francs when he made it at Cremona in 1735, has just been sold here for 103,400 francs, including the war tax. This is equivalent at current rates of exchange to about $9,000.

The violin was for a long time the property of the late Charles Lamoureux, founder and conductor of the famous Lamoureux orchestra.

The recent tests, which seemed to establish that modern-made violins can not be distinguished from ancient ones by their tone, do not seem to have affected the price of ancient instruments, if this sale is any criterion.

Sent Him a Mule's Head.

Independence, Mo.—On his hunting trip Frank Brown got an elk and ordered the head mounted. He was expecting it one day recently, and when a big box arrived by express he procured a hatchet, nail puller and derick and hastened to open it up. The boys gathered around to watch, and when the box was carefully opened the excelsior and straw removed, there was the head of a grinning mule with dead Jimson weeds for branching antlers. Those who saw it pronounced it a very fine head of its kind, and the joke was complete when the big express bill was presented.

SOME FIRST THINGS IN BOURBON.

According to an ancient record discovered by County Attorney David Cline, the first crop of corn grown in Bourbon county was produced on Cooper's Run by Jas. Cooper in the summer of 1775. Cooper was killed by the Indians the following winter in the massacre of Hinkston station.

The same record states that the first order book of Bourbon county, when Bourbon county was a part of Virginia, shows that County Court awarded to the heirs of James Cooper 1,000 acres of land on the Hinkston fork of Licking river for having improved his farm by growing a crop of corn on it in 1775.

The first fines in Bourbon were those assessed against four men summoned as grand jurors, who failed to appear, and fined 400 pounds of tobacco each.

The first court held in Bourbon county was at the residence of James Garrard, May 16, 1786. Jas. Garrard was County Judge, Benjamin Harrison Sheriff and John Edwards County Clerk.
